

Skilled Production Assemblers – DryAir Manufacturing

About Us

DryAir Manufacturing is a recognized leader in portable hydronic heating systems, delivering high-performance solutions across North America. One of our areas of knowledge and expertise is in plumbing and electrical assembly. We take pride in our commitment to quality, innovation, and craftsmanship.

The Opportunity

We're looking for skilled and motivated Production Assemblers to join our team. These roles are ideal for individuals with strong experience in manufacturing production, or individuals with a plumbing, electrical or mechanical background, who are ready to take on more responsibility and grow into a leadership position.

Key Responsibilities

- Perform advanced plumbing and electrical assembly tasks with precision and efficiency
- Support production planning and workflow optimization
- Collaborate with team members and contribute to a positive, productive work environment
- Assist in training and mentoring junior assemblers
- Identify opportunities for process improvements and quality enhancements
- Maintain high standards of safety and compliance

What You Bring

- Extensive hands-on experience in manufacturing, or knowledge and experience with plumbing, electrical or mechanical systems
- Strong understanding of production processes and quality control
- Excellent communication and teamwork skills
- A proactive mindset and willingness to take initiative
- Leadership experience or potential to grow into a supervisory role

Why Join DryAir?

- Be part of a company that values technical excellence and personal growth
- Competitive compensation and benefits
- Opportunities for advancement into leadership roles
- A collaborative, forward-thinking work culture

Ready to build your future with DryAir? Send your resume to payroll@dryair.ca and take the next step in your career.